RDA Copy Cataloging Guidelines

About RDA

- RDA stands for Resource Description Access. It is a set of guidelines and instructions covering all types of content and media, the cataloging standard which now replaces AACR2. It was implemented by the Library of Congress April 1, 2013.
- Underlying RDA are the conceptual models FRBR (Functional Requirements for Bibliographic Records) and FRAD (Functional Requirements for Authority Data).
- RDA is designed for the digital world. Unlike AACR2, it is optimized for use as an online product. This means that items cataloged according to the RDA guidelines will be usable on the Internet, Web, OPACs, and so forth.
- For more information on RDA see The Joint Steering Committee (JSC) for development of RDA website on RDA: <http://www.rda-jsc.org/rda.html>

Introduction

- The following cataloging guidelines are taken from the Library of Congress's training guide for copy cataloging in RDA, "Copy Cataloging Using RDA Manual" (CCURM) and the RDA chapters available in PDF in the RDA folder (RDA). These are available online at: <http://www.loc.gov/catworkshop/RDA%20training%20materials/LC%20RDA%20Training/LC%20RDA%20course%20table.html>
- These guidelines are to be used when creating records according to the RDA standard or for updating records to this standard. Given here is a summary which emphasizes certain principles as well as giving directives particular to our practices at the Jerry Falwell Library; all the guidelines given in the CCURM should be followed and practiced.
- In the guidelines given, not every fixed and variable field in a MARC record will be discussed; the fields in which the practices are different from AACR2 are given, with emphasis on what needs to be present in a RDA record.
- Links to examples of full MARC records cataloged according to RDA will be given in the slide "RDA MARC Field Examples" after the guidelines.

General Guidelines

AACR2 Records that Should be Converted to RDA

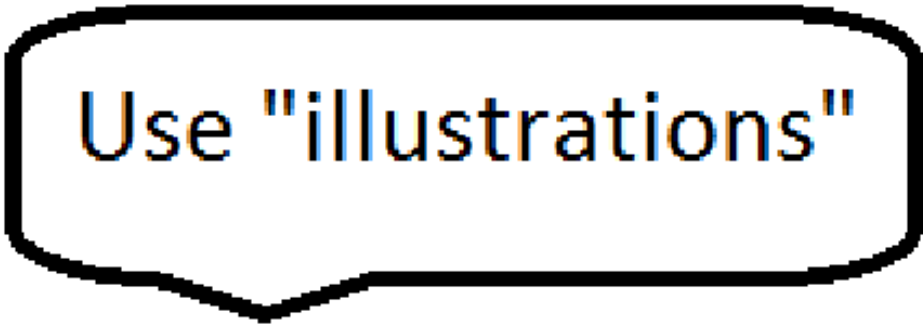

- Any new MARC record created should be cataloged according to RDA standards.
- Any record that is being updated with table of contents or summary should be updated to RDA.

RDA Records

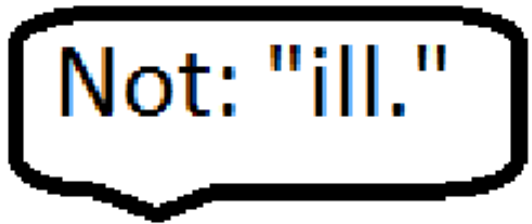

An imported RDA record should be kept as RDA. Most RDA records imported from OCLC will be full or fuller-level records. If an RDA record is found that is at encoding levels K, M, 3, 5, and 7, please inform the Cataloging Librarian.

Abbreviations

- In transcribed fields, use only the abbreviations that appear on the resource.
- In other fields, generally accept abbreviations as recorded in the imported record, unless directed otherwise in this document (e.g., extent).
- For example, “et al.” should only be used if that is what is recorded on the resource. But in the case where that is recorded, you are free to apply the “Optional Omission” in RDA 2.4.1.5 proper and use the construction “[and __ others]”.

Use "illustrations"

Not: "ill."

Fixed Fields

- Desc use the letter i, not a
- Ills
 - If there are illustrations, use a; a can only be used by itself.
 - If there are more specific descriptors such as maps, charts or photographs, you are not to use a in combination with the letter representing the map or chart, etc.
 - For example, if it has illustrations plus a map, only use b, not a and b.
 - You can only use a combination of letters for descriptors other than illustrations. For example, if it has maps and photographs, b and o.
 - For a list of all the descriptors see: <http://www.oclc.org/bibformats/en/fixedfield/ills.html>
