- V. Course Objectives/Requirements

- 1. Students will be exposed to a variety of philosophical, historical, and social science perspectives that have contributed to an understanding of terrorism.
- 2. Students will learn how to analyze and compare the history, social psychology, and political behavior of mass movements generally and the role played by political violence.

- VI. Graded Requirements

- 1. Each student is responsible for completing reading assignments prior to class and should keep a loose leaf notebook of class materials.
- 2. Participation is an essential part of class. Textbook chapters, collateral readings, and current events will be the subject of class commentary and discussions. On

- some days, each student will be given reading to summarize. Students should always be prepared to discuss textbook readings and current events.
3. Students will be tested on the lecture and reading material through a series of two take-home essay and short answer tests that should be returned at the scheduled date and time. All make-up work must be completed before the last class period.
 4. Each student will research and write an original term paper (8-12 pages double-spaced) or book review on a topic related to terrorism and then present a summary of it to the class. The bibliography contains suggested resources. Barnes & Noble carries some recent titles, such as Peter L. Bergen's Holy War, Inc., Steven Emerson's American Jihad, Walter Lacqueur's The New Terrorism, Benjamin Netanyahu's Fighting Terrorism, Osterholm and Schwartz's Living Terrors, and Simon Reeve's The New Jackals. Only one person may report on any single book. Several works, such as James Billington's Fire in the Minds of Men, Erik von Kuehnelt-Leddihn's Leftism Revisited, and Eugen Rosenstock-Huessy's Out of Revolution, are available in the library for research purposes.
 5. The grading scale is 100-90=A, 89-80=B, 79-70=C, 69-60=D, 59 and below=F.

VII. Attendance Students are supposed to arrive on time for every class meeting. Students who are absent due to illness or emergency should notify the professor prior to class or soon afterward. Excused absences include participation in university-sponsored events, serious illness (if accompanied by a physician's note), or a family emergency. Four unexcused absences will result in a failing grade. Persistent tardiness will have a detrimental effect on grades.

VIII. Dress Code Observe the Liberty Way. Students who are not in appropriate campus attire will not be admitted to class. Caps will not be worn in class. Other than drinks, there will be no eating in the classroom.
